

On behalf of the Organizing Committee, we are pleased to invite you to the international conference Sustainability in Cultural Heritage (SICH) organized by the University of Pisa in partnership with YOCOCU, Youth in Conservation of Cultural Heritage (www.yococu.com). The conference's main aim is to create a platform to share knowledge between the whole range of professionals involved in the conservation and preservation of Cultural Heritage. This conference will act as the final dissemination action of the SICH project (Project No. 2010329WPF_001; www1.dcci.unipi.it/sichprin/).

Conference Venue : CNR (Consiglio Nazionale delle Ricerche) Piazza Aldo Moro,7 (Rome)

Conference Date: 11 - 12 January 2016

Official Website: www1.dcci.unipi.it/sichprin/index\_congres.html

Email sichprinconference2016@gmail.com

Abstract submission deadline 20th december

The themes to be addressed in the three proposed sessions are:

- 1) Innovative and eco-friendly materials and methods for the consolidation, cleaning, and protection of objects of historic, archaeological and artistic value.
- 2) Long-term behavior of materials: interaction and degradation of materials in works-of-art.
- 3) Methods for diagnostics of organic materials in cultural heritage: micro-destructive and non-invasive methods and sampling strategies.

A final round table with key speakers, representatives of the different professionals involved in the field, will be exploited to open discussion on the past, the future and the topics of current interest in the cultural heritage research field.

Registration and Abstract submission can be performed through the web page of the conference (www1.dcci.unipi.it/sichprin/). The deadline for the abstract submission is the 20th December 2015.

We are looking forward to welcome you in Rome,
